One of Ohio County Schools Target Areas is Community Involvement. Television, radio and print media outlets may enter your child's school and/or classroom to cover education stories, which may include names and photographs. This helps to keep the community informed about important events at the schools.

The school system's Web site is another way for the district to showcase its tradition of excellence in education. Ohio County Schools' webmaster and school technology coordinators frequently update the Web site, which, with your permission, may include photographs of students, with no names, in educational and/or athletic settings.

Please take a few moments to read the following permission form, fill out both sections and return it to your child's teacher.
